N2Revolution Enters into Agreement with JM Lexus to Provide Purigen98

World's Largest Lexus Dealer Now Offering the Nitrogen Tire Inflation Gas in All New Vehicles

Fort Lauderdale, FL – June 26, 2006. N₂Revolution, Inc., which develops and manufactures environmentally friendly automotive solutions, is pleased to announce that it has completed development of a specialty application for its flagship nitrogen tire inflation system, Purigen98™, on behalf of JM Lexus. In the agreement, the world's largest Lexus dealer will provide Purigen98 in the vehicles they sell and service.

Purigen98™ is a tire inflation gas (minimum 98% pure nitrogen) that improves overall vehicle performance because it maintains proper inflation pressure more effectively than oxygen, the gas presently used to inflate the average tire. Purigen98™ ultimately improves fuel efficiency, and dramatically reduced tire wear, which has huge implications for safety.

"JM Lexus has been a world leader at what it does. It is also a South Florida institution, exemplary in its attention to quality and customer satisfaction," said Robin Pearl, president of N₂Revolution. "This is an organization with which we are very pleased to be associated, not only because of its commitment to excellence, but also because of its high level of social responsibility."

In the agreement N₂Revolution will be developing a customized version of Purigen98™ for exclusive use in JM Lexus' new cars and as well as in the vehicles they service. "The value of using nitrogen as a tire inflation gas has long been established," said Jim Dunn, vice president and general manager of JM Lexus. "We were most impressed by the fact that Purigen98™ has the highest guaranteed purity level of nitrogen on the market, and we always strive to offer a superior product to our customers," he continued. Industry studies have found that the purer the gas, meaning the less oxygen it contains, the more effectively it will perform.

"This agreement falls completely in line with N₂Revolution's strategy of rolling out Purigen98™ in the Florida market, beginning with car dealerships and multi-unit maintenance service providers," said Pearl. Nitrogen inflation has not been widely available to the average consumer, though it has been used for decades in such sports settings as Formula One, NASCAR; in heavy-duty off road equipment; and by NASA and other commercial and military aircraft, including Air Force One. N₂Revolution is investing heavily in delivering Purigen98™ to the average consumer via a strategic rollout, which combines geographic, industry segment and company-specific distribution of the product.

The company has recently entered into distribution agreements with partners nationwide in an effort to expedite the delivery of Purigen98™ to the masses. N₂Revolution has signed license agreements with distributors throughout the state of Florida and nationwide in all major markets throughout the US, Canada, Mexico and Puerto Rico.
